Dysport®: The New Botox® Alternative

DYSPORT®: The New Alternative to Botox

1- What is Dysport?

Dysport is an FDA-approved protein injectable used for the reduction of fine lines and wrinkles in the face.

2- How is Dysport different than Botox?

Dysport is very similar in composition to Botox as they are both injectable treatments of botulinum toxin Type A. Some studies have shown that Dysport acts faster than Botox as some patients have seen results in as little as 1-2 days (vs. 3-5 days for Botox). Some studies have also suggested that Dysport lasts about 3 to 4 weeks longer than Botox.

3- How long has Dysport been on the market?

Dysport has been successfully used in Europe since the early nineties. It has been FDA approved in the US since April 2009. Dr. Bitar has had very happy patients treated with Dysport; the results are natural and fast!

4- What are the side effects of Dysport?

The potential side effects of Dysport are similar to those of Botox. They mostly include swelling, bruising, or mild tenderness during injection. These side effects can be minimized by placing ice on the injection site before and after the procedure, which takes a couple of minutes only.

Bitar Hand Rejuvenation Treatment™: Take Years off of your Hands without Surgery!

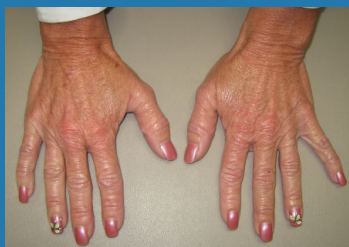

Are your hands giving away your age? Most people focus on their face and ignore their hands. Bad mistake!

Because, even if your face looks young, chances are your hands do not ... Over time, hands show wrinkles, spots, and the tendons stick out due to ... sun damage ...aging... loss of fat...trauma...etc.

You can hide them, wear mittens, apply fake bake, go around only showing your palms, or...

Luckily, at BCSI this can be reversed with a simple non surgical procedure that takes 15 minutes with no down time.

We start with one of our special lasers, selected specifically to suit the color and texture of your skin. The treatment is then followed by the injection of a filler suitable for your hands' anatomy, to restore the hand's plump and youthful appearance. This is done painlessly and with immediate results! Yes, it is that simple!
